

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of playback of image in a digital TV transmission/ reception system is characterized by providing in a network circuit a buffer system, which has a function of, while continuing the actual real-time broadcast, recording and erasing said broadcast image
5 and sound linked to the image in sequence and in units of second or minute and, by operation of the buffer system, enabling to reproduce the previously broadcast image and/or sound.